Re: OFCY Summer 2017 Programs - Grant Renewal Recommendation

Summary

OFCY provides twelve (12) program grants to agencies for programming through the Summer Youth Development & Empowerment strategy, with annual grants totaling $1,043,901. OFCY staff recommends that the Planning and Oversight Committee adopt a motion to approve renewal of the twelve program grants for FY2017-2018 (Summer 2017).

Overview

The Oakland Fund for Children and Youth (OFCY) reviews programs for performance and grant compliance to guide the Planning and Oversight Committee (POC) in its recommendations for grant renewals for FY2017-2018.

The OFCY grant recommendations for the FY2016-2019 funding cycle were approved by the POC on April 20, 2016 and adopted by the City Council on June 7, 2016. The timing of City approval of the grant awards and beginning of new summer programming in the first year, led to a very brief start-up period to enter into contract, plan, and deliver summer services with OFCY support. OFCY programs supported through the Summer Youth Development & Empowerment strategy operate during the summer school break, from June 1 through August 31.

Due to the brief period of program operation and early start of activities, OFCY is prioritizing renewal of programs supported through the Summer Youth Development & Empowerment strategy. POC approval of the recommendation will be presented to the Oakland City Council for adoption in April 2017, providing sufficient time for OFCY staff to initiate and negotiate renewal contracts for summer programs in advance of June 2017.

OFCY funded summer programs provide enriching and educational programming when school is out of session. In summer 2016, the twelve programs served 2,457 children and youth.

Review Process & Criteria

OFCY staff reviewed grantee performance outcomes from Summer 2016 as part of the determination in the funding renewal recommendation. Summer programs submit narrative, fiscal, and activity detail progress reports to OFCY Grant Managers in Fall for review. In addition, OFCY grant managers conducted visits to new summer programs in 2016 to verify programming.

OFCY conducts the performance review of programs in the Summer Youth Development and Empowerment strategy based on the programs end-of-summer reporting. Programs are flagged for unsatisfactory performance if the programs have findings in the following categories:
Performance Indicator

Summer 2016 Program Performance

In Summer 2016, ten of twelve programs funded through the OFCY Summer Youth Development & Empowerment strategy met minimum satisfactory performance benchmarks based on projected youth enrollment and hours of service to be provided. One program was below the benchmark for Hours (Units) of Service provided to youth; and one program was below the benchmark for youth enrollment.

The two programs that were below performance thresholds were reviewed more extensively by OFCY program staff to develop plans to address shortfalls in advance of summer 2017 and make adjustments to the program’s scope of work. Staff has addressed performance shortfalls with programs and has confidence based on grantee communication and reporting that barriers have been identified and that programs have plans in place to address issues in advance of Summer 2017.

Edventure More – Camp Edmo is a first-time OFCY grantee, and attributed short fall in this first year of programming to cultural conflicts between staff and Spanish speaking members of the Brookfield community. The agency also experienced coordination challenges with the site. partner contracted by OUSD to provide the morning portion of the programming. The challenges included the dissemination of inaccurate schedules and conflicting participant selection criteria. Employee recruitment efforts will begin earlier for summer 2017 programming with a focus on hiring qualified fluent community based Spanish-speaking staff. The Agency has also begun the process of developing culturally appropriate curriculum and building stronger connections with the individual school cultures. Agency is working closely with the OUSD designated site partner to develop a consolidated participant recruitment process and intake form. The Scope of Work will not be adjusted. Grantee is confident existing projections will be met in the next program year.

Social and Environmental Entrepreneurs, Inc. – Acta Non Verba: Youth Urban Farm Project is a Small & Emerging program and a first-time OFCY grantee. The program reached 100% of enrollment goals and served 100 youth during eight weeks of summer programming. However, the program fell short on hours of service, primarily due to over-projections of hours of services and average participation in select activities. OFCY will work with the program to adjust their scope of work for more accurate projections. Adjustments to activity projections in advance of Summer 2017 will maintain the overall scope of work and more accurately reflect the breadth and scope of services provided by Acta Non Verba. With these adjustments, OFCY and Acta Non Verba are confident projections will be met in the next program year.

In summer 2016, the twelve summer programs collectively served 2,457 children and youth and provided over 260,000 hours of service. The twelve programs provided services at 35 Oakland locations. Including field trips, programs provided services at 46 different locations. Approximately half of the programs provide services at OUSD school sites, serving as summer ‘hubs’ for academic and enrichment programming in conjunction with the OUSD Summer Learning department.

Request:

OFCY staff recommends that the Planning and Oversight Committee adopt a motion to approve renewal of the twelve program grants for FY2017-2018 (Summer 2017), with annual grants totaling $1,043,901.
