What supports does your program need? Or other concerns?

Flexibility with activities. hard to say what ultimate numbers will look like

Need to be creative with program design. What can we do other than what we are used to doing while maintaining integrity

One of out primary focuses this year is on student mental wellness. We (College Track) are actively interviewing MSW students to help support in 1:1 therapy sessions for our most high need students. In support that OFCY

Expectations of deliverables. It's a huge challenge with student engagement

I'm concerned about being able to reach students, especially those who require a lot of support.

Flexibility for sure! Maybe the outcomes won't be as expected immediately.

How to engage students in RJ online when they prefer to do it in person

Flexibiity,Being Open to new ways of engagement, Being considerate of how this is affecting and showing up for others and focusing on what i do have instead of what i dont have

What issues are you concerned about when returning to in-person learning?

My main concern is with safety. I have elder family members that I help take care of. My office space is very small with no windows, and students aren't always the most conscious about using masks or washing their hands.

Don't want to rush back just cause we are sick of learning or political pressure

1. Safety of our students and staff

My office might not have the ability to social distance appropriately. Many programs run out of the office I am located at.

Safe social distancing classes

I'm concerned about potentially exposing myself to covid and putting my family's health at risk. The space at our school site does not allow for social distancing.

Safety, Having Low numbers of engagement virtually translating to low numbers in person as well.

What do you need from OFCY or SPR at this time?

have confidance in our work and efforts!

OFCY has been very understanding and open to adaptability. I appreciate that

Yes to the above

Also, most students that I engage with aren't always the most willing to receive services. In the past, after meeting with them in person and giving them a sense of who I am, it helps tremendously in them be willing to try out

Not sure. I guess the main thing is understanding that it has become much more difficult to engage students that don't go to class regularly and aren't on top of responding to emails.

I second this comment! ^

Finding ways to quantify new activities and engagement to meet grant goals and deliverables
